Engagement with Impact

Develop ● Consult ● Evaluate

Participatory Research

Live workshops
Participatory research 101- The what, why and how

Thinking about doing a participatory research project, or want to find out more about it?

Join this workshop to learn about participatory research and different methods of engagement, getting to know your target audiences, and how to tailor your activities to them. We will also explore the role that participatory research plays in our society.

Who's it for: Researchers new to participatory research and want to know more about it

Workshop format:

- Online live workshop (plus recording for 1 year)
- 2 hours
- up to 50 attendees

Cost: £480+VAT

Planning: How to plan and design an impactful participatory research project

Thinking about what sorts of outcomes and impacts your project aims to achieve?

By working through a case study you will learn how to use the logic model framework as a tool to plan and design your impact. Attendees will learn the difference between impact, outcomes and outputs before using the logic model framework to plan for impact with their own participatory research projects.

Who's it for: Researchers running/thinking of running an impactful participatory research project

Workshop format:

- Online live workshop (plus recording for 1 year)
- 3 hours
- up to 30 attendees

Cost: £650+VAT

Evaluating- How to evaluate your impact

Trying to go above and beyond a feedback form?

This interactive workshop is about going above and beyond with your evaluation skills. Using an evaluation plan you will be getting creative with your evaluation techniques as you work through a range of methodologies commonly used in impact projects. We will discuss the pros and cons of different evaluation techniques before having a go at a case study and having the opportunity to think about your very own project.

Who's it for: Researchers running/thinking of running an impactful participatory research project

Workshop format:

- Online live workshop (plus recording for 1 year)
- 3 hours
- up to 30 attendees

Cost: £650+VAT

Engaging ethically- Working ethically with your publics

Wandering how to consider the ethics of working together with public grous?

This interactive workshop introduces the ethics behind working with public groups in your research. Participatory research often involves complex partnerships between organisations and individuals with different strengths, interests, power and influence. This workshop is about exploring how we can work ethically in these partnerships and reflecting on aspects such as information ownership, how people are treated, and partnership equality. Using case studies, attendees have the opportunity to reflect on their own practice and projects.

Who's it for: Researchers running/thinking of working with community partners

Workshop format:

- Online live workshop (plus recording for 1 year)
- 2 hours
- up to 50 attendees

Cost: £480+VAT

Delivering with impact- Communicating your research to non-specialist audiences

Need to talk about your research to different groups of people?

This interactive workshop is a perfect chance to work on your communication skills. You will work on a research story which you can use to engage with your public audiences. You will work through getting to know your publics, thinking about what language and terminology to use and working out your research story structure before giving it a go yourself!

Who's it for: Those working with different public groups

Workshop format:

- Online live workshop (plus recording for 1 year)
- 3 hours
- up to 30 attendees

Cost: £650+VAT